

Annual HEDIS Medical Record Retrieval Project

Frequently Asked Questions

What is HEDIS?

Healthcare Effectiveness Data and Information Set (HEDIS®) reporting is mandated by the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS), National Committee for Quality Assurance (NCQA), and state regulatory agencies. HEDIS is a set of standardized performance measures that objectively measures, reports, and compares quality across health plans. Data obtained in annual HEDIS projects is used to identify opportunities for care improvement, monitor quality improvement initiatives, maintain health plan accreditation, and provides a standard method of comparison with other health plans.

The HEDIS Medical Record Retrieval project occurs annually from January to April. During this period, medical record reviews are completed for a subset of members identified as being nonadherent or missing care gap information.

Participating providers are contractually required to supply medical records to meet state and federal regulatory and accreditation obligations.

How does the Annual HEDIS Medical Record Retrieval project benefit me?

- Helps improve patient outcomes and decreases the cost of care by identifying members/patients/enrollees who have a gap in care.
- Provides data to support HEDIS measure compliance that is often not obtained from claims.
- Complies with contractual requirements regarding the provision of HEDIS data.

What should our office expect?

- Your office/organization should receive a letter near the end of the year notifying you that record collection will begin in the coming weeks.
- Your office/organization may then receive outreach and/or a list of members and their identified gaps in care in a provider package from the plan's third-party medical record retrieval service.
- Your office/organization is expected to respond to the record collection request by providing specific member records according to the criteria included in the provider package instructions. Only send the minimum data necessary that is outlined in the provider package.

Is this an audit?

- No, this is not an audit, but participation in annual HEDIS reporting is a contractual requirement for plan-participating providers.

- The timeline below outlines the three distinct periods for medical record requests:

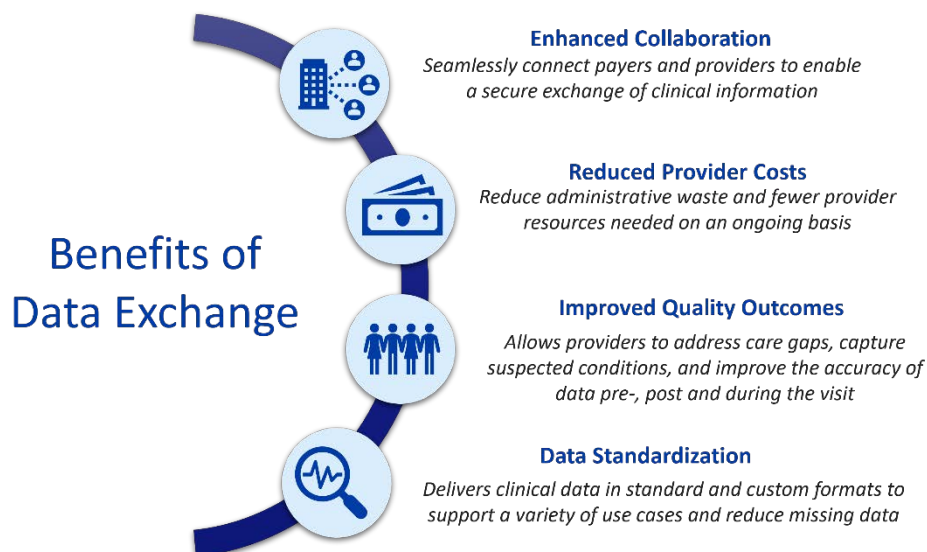

How can medical record and data requests be streamlined to reduce provider burden?

- Opportunities for streamlining medical record and data requests include:
 - Remote EMR access: Granting access to the health plan ensures that the provider can control the level of access and maintain the integrity of an audit trail for provider compliance and auditing purposes. It also ensures that valuable HIM staff are not spending too much time pulling medical record requests during some of the busiest times of the year. This access also improves member match rates and allows more charts to be processed with fewer provider resources.
 - Supplemental Data Exchange: This allows providers to automate data exchange on a regular schedule that works best for them. Depending on the method of exchange, this option may initially be more resource intensive during initiation and quality testing prior to production.

What are the benefits to data exchange and EMR access?

- There are multiple benefits to allowing plan EMR access or initiation of a data exchange which includes:
